RETAIL COMMERCE

Commercial activity in Allegany County continues to expand, providing residents with a complete range of goods and services. Allegany County residents have convenient and competitive shopping at their fingertips, and abundant dining opportunities at restaurants that provide American and International cuisine. The county's oldest and most established shopping area is the Downtown Cumberland Mall, in the heart of the city's business district. The city center, which has undergone a renaissance of redevelopment, has been transformed into a pedestrian mall where specialty, clothing, antique, and gift stores border brick walkways, fountains, and parklets.

Another major shopping complex, the Country Club Mall, is located four miles west of Cumberland in the LaVale area. This enclosed mall provides additional services, entertainment, and shopping for the Tri-State area. The Country Club Mall, with 593,685 square feet of covered climate-controlled retail area, houses numerous service and specialty retailers, eight movie theatres, and a Wal-Mart Super Center.

Several shopping centers are located just minutes from the mall, including LaVale Plaza, Braddock Square and Burton's Plaza. Frostburg's Main Street area is an equally established retail district with a variety of shops, coffee houses, and highly rated restaurants. Other shopping districts can be found in South Cumberland, McCoole, Frostburg, Tri-Towns and in the smaller towns in the surrounding area.

Retail commerce in Allegany County for 2010 exceeded 640 million dollars. The Allegany County/Cumberland primary service trade area consists of nearly 150,756 people in a larger service trade area of 260,170 people.

CULTURAL ACTIVITIES

Private foundations, arts council, and our local college and university command an impressive array of events and attractions available to all residents, from preschoolers to senior citizens. Both Frostburg State University and Allegany College of Maryland draw musicians, vocalists and dramatists for area performances, and each hosts a year long schedule of art shows, film and lectures to cultivate the mind.

July means the Allegany County Fair and Agricultural Exposition at the county fairgrounds. The program includes activities such as livestock shows and sales, homemaker and 4-H demonstrations, a rodeo and live music, along with rides and midway activities.

The Western Maryland Street Rod and Roundup is held over Labor Day weekend at the county fairgrounds. Over 1,000 pre-1949 street rods are on display each year, making it one of the largest shows of its kind.

A focal point of cultural events and leisure activities is the Allegany Arts Council, which sponsors its own activities and acts as an umbrella organization that supports local groups including the renowned equity playhouse, the Cumberland Theatre. Allegany County features several festival and community events throughout the year. Among the largest is Heritage Days, a two-day arts and crafts fair each September that attracts craftsman from all over the country. Along with displays of artistic handiwork, musical and theatrical entertainment is featured throughout the festival. For a full listing of festivals contact the Department of Tourism at 800-425-2067 or 301-777-5132 and online at www.mdmountainside.com.

The Cumberland Cultural Foundation C. William Gilchrist Gallery of the Arts serves as a permanent repository for fine arts collections.

The Frostburg State University (FSU) Cultural Events Series is particularly noteworthy as an annual producer of top-notch performance art that includes everything from contemporary jazz to traditional theatre to cutting edge multi-media productions.

The Cohongaronta Gallery at the Greater Cumberland Regional Airport reviews the history and art of the region.

The Western Maryland Scenic Railroad, which offers the only steam engine excursions in Maryland, boasts a comfortable ride from Cumberland up through the mountains to Frostburg. A full calendar of murder mysteries and theme excursions are available at www.wmsr.com or by calling 1-800TRAIN50 or 301-759-4400.

RECREATIONAL FACILITIES

Allegheny County is blessed with beautiful natural resources, which make a visit through the region a wonderful experience. Numerous recreational activities are available free of charge through state parks and forests here and in adjacent Garrett County, Maryland and nearby Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Diversions include camping, hiking, fishing, canoeing, hunting, swimming and biking. Within an hour's drive is a handful of winter snow skiing resorts and fabulous cross-country skiing opportunities during the winter months.

Rocky Gap State Park, six miles east of Cumberland, is a mecca for bathers, boaters and fisherman. Dan's Mountain State Park, in Lonaconing, and Green Ridge State Forest, east of Cumberland also provide wilderness areas for outdoor lovers. For the family, Constitution Park is a city-owned and operated facility of over 100 acres with a huge swimming pool, tennis courts and amphitheater. A planned year-round program is provided by the municipal recreation department, including summer playgrounds and ice skating. There are five swimming pools, four golf courses and many tennis courts available throughout Allegheny County.

The Cumberland Country Club, Fore Sister's Golf Club in Rawlings, and the Rocky Gap Casino Resort in Flintstone, which possesses the only Jack Nicklaus signature golf course in Maryland, all have excellent eighteen-hole courses. Numerous other courses are within easy reach of Cumberland. A major ten-pin bowling center serves the Cumberland and suburban area with 32 lanes. There are programs for youth, seniors, men and women, and strong industrial league development.

A variety of senior citizen activities such as exercise programs, ceramics, playing cards, bridge clubs and square dancing are available at the Cumberland Senior Citizens Center located at 125 Virginia Avenue, Cumberland.

With the Riverside Recreation Facility and the recently renovated C. William Gilchrist Center Downtown, the YMCA offers services to people of all ages and income levels. The Y's offerings include wall climbing, swimming, youth sports, and adult wellness, as well as licensed infant, toddler, preschool, and school-age childcare, a family support center, and supported housing for low-income families and single men.

EDUCATION

Cumberland and Allegany County provide a rich and varied educational system for nearly 20,000 students. Schools include public, church related and college level institutions. In addition, many other major educational centers are located within easy reach of the county.

Allegany County comprises a system of 22 public schools and 10 private schools. The public school system not only provides the pupil a superior education within reasonable distance of home, but also provides a steady stream of competent graduates who make the local labor market a major attraction to business moving into this area.

The county has ample and well attended church related schools to support families who elect a religious emphasis as part of their children's education.

Allegany County has two institutions of higher learning to support the career and personal objectives of over 11,000 students as well as the growing demand of employers for professional and business graduates. In addition, there are nearly 30 other institutions located nearby.

LIBRARY SYSTEM

The Allegany County Library System has its main library centrally located in Cumberland, and five branches, in South Cumberland, LaVale, Frostburg, George's Creek and Westernport. The system "Bookmobile" regularly tours the county.
